Save energy, save money

Clever tips to make your pool more energy efficient

Everyone knows that electricity costs are through the roof – and that obviously includes the cost of running a pool. But there are things you can do to reduce this cost and save yourself hundreds of dollars a year. A top tip is to replace your single speed pump with a multi (or variable) speed pump. They've been engineered to significantly reduce high electricity consumption and CO2 emissions.

The 8 star rated Speck Badu Eco Touch Pump features German technology and is made in Australia to suit Australian conditions. The Pump has a three speed motor which allows owners to set the pump at a low energy saving flow rate speed. Another benefit of variable speed pumps is the impact they have on other pool equipment. If you halve the flow, you reduce the pressure by 75%. What does that do to all the other equipment in the system? Everything lasts longer; your heater lasts longer, your filter last longer, your chlorinator lasts longer and your pipework lasts longer. Other benefits include Lower Noise Levels & a Sparkling Clean Pool. Call in to Donemans & Check them out today.

Swimming laps can get a bit boring after a while, so try these more entertaining ways to get your heart pumping in the pool:

- * The spiderman: Climb the side of the pool with your feet, while swinging your arms to stabilise yourself
- * Water jogging: In waist high water, jog up and down your pool for three minutes
- * Pool plank: Stand on the pool floor, grab a pool noodle and press it down into the water until your body is on an even incline. Keep yourself stable for 1-2 minutes.
