MEDIA CHANGE

It is recommended that the sand be changed every 5 years to ensure that your pool is maintained in a healthy pristine condition. When filter efficiency is allowed to diminish the pool becomes harder to look after and more expensive to run. Water quality becomes a problem due to the inadequate filtration causing chemical usage to escalate.

As an alternative to filter sand we are now pleased to be able to offer you an all new revolutionary filter medium – FLO Glass (glass filtration media). When compared to regular sand, FLO Glass saves up to 25% of water through less frequent backwashing. FLO Glass also has a longer lifetime of around 15 years as compared to 5 years with silica sand.

Shocking treatment

Shock your pool into good health

Shock treating, also known as shocking a swimming pool refers to the addition of anything to the water that will remove or destroy ammonia and nitrogen compounds by oxidation.

Shocking your pool regularly helps rid the pool of inorganic wastes (referred to as chloramines), such as sweat, cosmetics, suntan lotions, body oils, urine, contaminants brought by rain or wind, bird droppings, and dead bugs that visit your pool.

Proper shocking helps ensure that the sanitiser can concentrate on killing bacteria and algae rather than having to fight these other foreign matters. Put simply, when a pool is properly shocked, the pool stays cleaner, more sparkling, and is less prone to algae blooms and cloudy water.

Did You Know

On a sunny day up to 95% of the chlorine in the pool can be lost into the atmosphere in as little as three-and-a-half hours!

Water balance

The importance of correct water balance

Correctly balanced water is essential when considering the long term effect on pool finishes, exposed metal and equipment. If water is out of balance it will either be corrosive or scale forming, which in both cases is detrimental to the pool.

Four factors contribute to balanced pool water:
PH, total alkalinity, calcium hardness and temperature.
